"Columbia" notes.

Twenty-one years ago—just of age.

The anniversary occurred on Saturday last, but circumstances necessitated the postponement of the celebration until today.

The Grant Cornet Band headed the members of the company on their parade to the park this morning.

Louis Luba, young and in his prime, where is the maiden that will have him?

Among the incorporators who have passed away are Dr. E. J. Kern, H. D. Bass and John Bernhard.

Happy days—the first year of the organization.

C-o-l-u-m-b-i-a, efficient first and last.

The first parade—how proudly the boys marched!

Abel Lobred, who is now in Minnesota, would have enjoyed the anniversary today.

T. J. Foster, now of Stanton, is an exempt member of the company.

Ed. Amour, the veteran secretary of the company who has kept the books in such excellent shape for many years, enjoyed the anniversary largely.

Wonder where is Pete Monaghan? He would have enjoyed himself today.

How many of the "boys" remember the days when some of the German members took great pride in the fact that they belonged to "der Clumey Hoss Gumbany?"

G. A. R. News.

The G. A. R. boys are having a good time at Williamsport this week.

Gettysburg continues to attract the boys that wore the blue and gray, too. The attitude is never without visitors, Sundays as well as week days.

Posts in this region are already agitating Grand Army day which is to be held at Mt. Carmel this year.

Gettysburg, which can now be reached on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, is a beautiful spot. It will be the attraction for years to come.

Camp Meeting.

The twentieth session of the Mountain Grove Camp Meeting begins on August 6th and will close on the 18th. The first day will be given to the temperance cause. The second will be Chautauque Day.

The third will be devoted to missionary interests and the 14th will be Epworth League Day. The regular religious services will begin Tuesday evening, Aug. 11th, and continue to the end of the meeting. In addition to the ministers of the District the following will be present: Chaplain McCabe, D. D.; Rev. W. A. Spencer, D. D.; Rev. S. F. Upham, D. D.; of Drew Theological Seminary, and Rev. C. A. Holmes, D. D., of Pittsburgh, Pa. Bishop Fox is also expected.

PEAKED HEADED PEOPLE.

They Tattoo Each Other From Head to Foot.

Dr. Junker, the African explorer, had a good opportunity for studying the fancies of the Mangbattu in matters of personal adornment. They like most other tribes visited by him, made a practice of tattooing the breast and belly while leaving the face untouched.

The execution of the chosen patterns is in each case a matter of many years, and every individual design represents an individual period in the life of the tattooed person.

Men and women alike, in common with many other tribes south of the Welle, paint their bodies with the dark juice of the gardenia and redwood powder mingled with fat. The favorites of the princes enjoy most of their leisure in covering themselves from crown to sole with the most varied and startling of painted designs. A Mangbattu of especially fastidious tastes shows his daintiness most remarkably in his hair dress.

"With astounding care and the greatest variety," says Dr. Junker, "they build upon their heads these wonderful structures—most tedious and elaborate bits of work, to which, however, the vain young men of the better classes patiently submit. Everything that women of civilized countries have accomplished in this particular, is far behind the marvellous forms of those hair phenomena."

The head band, and accompaniment of the style of elaborate headdress consists of thin black cords wound tightly around the forehead from the base of the nose to a line three or four inches above, and made fast to the back of the head. The head bands, as well as the hairdress of a Mangbattu remains undisturbed usually for weeks in succession.

The bands are put on the heads of unwashed children, and have a perceptible effect on the development of the skull. Dr. Junker saw many Mangbattu children whose heads had thus been rendered peaked to the extent of extreme deformity.

"Experience shows, however," says Dr. Junker, "that such artificial malformations of the skull do not affect the mental faculties so long as the top of the skull, and with it the brain, is allowed to develop unobstructed in some one direction. The Mangbattu tribes prove the truth of this assertion, for they stand without doubt on a much higher plane of life than many other native peoples which do not use the head bands."

The Secret of Success.

C. H. Engenbush, the druggist, believes that the secret of success is perseverance. There are no shortcuts in keeping the first line of pharmacies, but articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals in the market. He especially invites all persons who have reputation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side or shoulder, oppression, nightmares, dry cough, constipation, drooping or faint disease to try Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure. It is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Fine book for testing the blood. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, etc., and it contains no opiates.
